

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
The Authors	viii
Glossary	ix
Summary	1
1 Introduction and methodology	9
1.1 Introduction	9
1.2 Objectives of the research	10
1.3 Methodology	11
1.4 Report structure	13
2 Why are pensions provided?	15
2.1 Historical reasons for providing pensions	15
2.2 Emerging reasons for providing pensions	16
2.3 Do employees expect a degree of paternalism in pension provision?	18
3 What makes a good pension?	21
3.1 The hierarchy of pension types (employer view)	21
3.2 Employer comparison of pension provision with competitors	22
3.3 Employee view of how good the scheme is	22
3.4 What scheme features encourage scheme membership?	24
3.5 Reasons for deciding not to join pension scheme	25
4 How important are pensions to employees?	29
4.1 Do employers feel that employees care about pensions?	29
4.2 Impact of negative press (employer view)	31
4.3 Do employers care about the level of take-up of pensions?	32
4.4 How important are pensions to employees?	33
4.5 Are non-members making other plans for retirement?	35

5	How important are contribution levels?	37
5.1	Levels of employer contribution to defined benefit schemes	37
5.2	Levels of employer contribution to other schemes	38
5.3	The link between pension contributions and wages (employer view)	38
5.4	How aware are employees of contribution rates?	39
5.5	The link between pension contributions and wages (employee view)	40
5.6	Understanding of tax relief on pension contributions	41
6	How is information on pensions communicated?	43
6.1	Details of pension schemes in job advertisements	43
6.2	Information distributed on joining an employer	43
6.3	Communication after having joined	44
6.4	Employer concerns about promoting pension schemes	45
6.5	Employee understanding of information received about pensions	45
6.6	What information could persuade non-members to join?	47
7	Changes taking place in pension schemes	49
7.1	Re-evaluation and re-structuring of defined benefit schemes	49
7.2	Defined benefit schemes – closure or re-structuring	51
7.3	Setting up other types of scheme (apart from a defined benefit scheme) with an employer contribution	53
7.4	Changes in contribution levels to other types of scheme (apart from defined benefit schemes)	54
7.5	Setting up Stakeholder schemes with no employer contribution	55
7.6	Decision making on pension scheme changes	55
8	How are changes to pension schemes communicated to employees?	59
8.1	Types of communication used	59
8.2	Employee recall and satisfaction with communication	61
8.3	Types of communication which have been most effective	64
9	How have employees reacted to changes?	67
9.1	Perceived/anticipated employee reactions (employer view)	67
9.2	Anticipated impact on future take-up	68
9.3	Employees' reactions to change in provision	69
9.4	Perceived impact of changes on pension	69
9.5	Impact of changes on scheme membership	71
9.6	Impact of changes on views of employer and likelihood to stay with the organisation	72
9.7	Do employees anticipate further changes in the future?	72
10	Attitudes towards retirement	75
10.1	Late retirement	75
10.2	Flexible retirement	76
10.3	Employer links between retirement and pensions	77
10.4	Employees' retirement plans	77

11	Employees' attitudes towards pensions	79
11.1	Overall importance of pensions	79
11.2	Reasons for joining pension schemes	80
11.3	Reasons for deciding not to join pension scheme	82
11.4	Understanding of how pension schemes operate	84
11.5	Views on how good their scheme is	85
11.6	Knowledge of and opinions on contribution rates	85
11.7	Linking pension contributions and salaries	86
11.8	Understanding of tax relief on pension contributions	86
11.9	Employees' understanding of information received about pensions	87
11.10	What information could persuade non-members to join?	88
11.11	Plans made by non-members for retirement	89
12	Conclusions	91
	Appendix A Technical report	95
	Appendix B Topic Guides	99
	Other research reports available	111

List of tables

Table 1.1	Type of change to pension provision made/considered in last two years	12
Table 1.2	Profile of organisations covered	12
Table 1.3	Type of pension provision	13
Table A.1	Respondent job titles of employer interviews	95
Table A.2	Profile of employees interviewed	96

List of figures

Figure 7.1	Pressures on defined benefit schemes	51
Figure 8.1	Communication about pension changes	61

