

Acknowledgements

This report was undertaken by the National Centre for Social Research (NatCen), with contributions from researchers at the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP). The authors take responsibility for any errors or omissions in this report.

The Families and Children Study (FACS) is commissioned by the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP), and sponsored by Inland Revenue (IR), Department for Education and Skills (DfES), Sure Start, Children and Young Persons Unit (CYPU), Office of the Deputy Prime Minister (ODPM) and Department for Transport (DfT). We would like to thank these organisations for their continuing support of the study.

We would like to thank those at DWP and IR who have co-ordinated different aspects of the research programme at various times: at DWP, Kirby Swales, James Noble, Maxine Willitts and Stephen Morris; at IR, Mehdi Hussain, Emmanuelle Modica and Mike Bielby. At the National Centre for Social Research Debbie Collins, Clare Tait and Stephen Woodland have ensured that the survey continues to run smoothly. We would also like to thank Stephen McKay for his advice on the design and analysis of the FACS survey.

We would like to thank various people at the National Centre for Social Research for their contribution to the report. For her help in formatting the many tables in the report we would like to thank Jane Mangla. We would also like to thank Shaun Scholes for his work on producing standard error calculations. Finally, we would like to thank Anne Miers for her input to the chapter on work.

We give particular thanks to all the families who have given their time to be interviewed at some point during the study.
